

General Education Online Joins Schoolforge as a Member

The Internet (2002-01-08)

On January 4, 2002, General Education Online joined other organizations and projects in supporting a new idea called Schoolforge. Schoolforge aims to unify independent organizations that advocate, use, and develop open resources for primary and secondary education.

Joining Schoolforge allows General Education Online to continue to show its dedication to freely providing information to visitors via its website at <http://www.findaschool.org/>. The GEO project is also working towards releasing a new concept site during 2002, which will provide access to resources related to education, but that do not fall under the more specific categories allowed on findaschool.org.

More information on Schoolforge can be found at <http://www.schoolforge.net>.
